Calls to improve air quality to protect residents' health

By Owen Hughes

OXFORD residents' health is at risk from the government's lack of action to tackle illegal levels of air pollution.

Consistently high levels of air pollution in the UK resulted in the country's referral to the European Court of Justice last week.

Oxford City Council is one of 45 councils listed in the 2017 Air Quality Action Report requiring more action to tackle air pollution.

A report produced by Oxfordshire MEP Keith Taylor revealed 24 of Oxford's 70 monitoring sites have NO2 pollution levels above EU legal limits of 40 micrograms per cubic metre.

Mr Taylor said, "The European Commission is being forced to take legal action against the UK because the Government remains steadfastly apathetic in the face of a public health crisis that is linked to the deaths of 50 000 British citizens every year."

Julia Spragg, a Greenpeace volunteer in Oxford, said, "It's great Oxford City and Oxfordshire County Council are facilitating practical trials of new technologies that help our move towards a low carbon, low pollution transport system.

"But central government has to be much more ambitious about giving councils statutory powers and providing realistic funding for local government so our local councils can take serious action on air pollution."

Government urged to act over levels

Councillor Tom Hayes, executive board member for safer and greener environment said the council welcomes the decision to refer the UK to Europe's highest court. He said Oxford City Council "share the European Union's commitment to standing up for our basic right to breathe clean air".

"We strongly believe – given Oxford's toxic and illegal levels of air pollution in some streets – urgent action is needed. Every year there are tens of thousands of early deaths from dirty air in the UK, the benefits of cleaner air in Oxford are obvious."

Oxford is proposing the world's first Zero Emission Zone from 2020 in a bid to tackle air pollution levels.

"We need Government support, particularly to help fund the installation of more electric vehicle charging points in Oxford," Cllr Hayes added. "We hope the announcement by the European Commission encourages the government to strengthen its upcoming Clean Air Strategy and work even more closely with us."

Oxford City Council secured £3.25million from the government to tackle air pollution in the city with ministers pledging to provide "a more formal approach" in March.

Friends celebrate record figure with a cuppa

A GROUP of hospital volunteers are raising a cuppa to celebrate hitting £500,000 in turnover

The John Radcliffe Hospital League of Friends has been running since the 1970s and this record breaking figure has meant they have been able to donate £200 000 to the hospital

The group which runs two cafes – one in the main hospital and one in the women's centre – regularly serves more than 700 customers a day

Ruth Greves, chairman of the grant committee at League of Friends said, "Over the years we have seen many changes - from originally just offering tea and a bun, to today – where we serve hot and cold food in an attractive and professional environment, with a 5 star food hygiene rating.

"It's great to know that all those sandwiches, cups of tea and cakes have such an impact allowing us to purchase specialist medical equipment and support staff projects across the hospital."

Chief Nurse at the hospitals trust Sam Foster said they provide wonderful support "all done with a big smile and a big heart".

Calls for cost of living payment for NHS staff

A SHORTAGE of staff is "crippling" Oxford's NHS services as union members call for a cost of living allowance for Oxfordshire workers.

NHS staff in UNISON have been campaigning for an Oxford weighting to salaries in preparation for the Oxford March for the NHS on June 9

Currently NHS staff in Oxfordshire receive basic pay when other NHS staff in the South East get an additional cost of living supplement to meet the high cost of housing.

In areas of London with housing costs comparable to Oxfordshire, the supplement ranges from £3,553 to £4 528

Ian Mckendrick, communications officer for Oxfordshire UNISON health branch, said staff are at "breaking point" due to workload and stress levels as they "struggle to cover gaps in staffing"

He said, "The shortage of staff is crippling local NHS services.

"We have seen beds closed, operations cancelled, waiting times increased and A&E overloaded.

"Oxford hospitals are unable to compete with areas that pay the cost of living supplement

"It is a disgrace that action has still not been taken on what is a running sore. If the department of health won't act to solve this problem then we have no choice but to act ourselves."

100 Oxfam employees face axe after scandal

By George Welch

STAFF at crisis embroiled Oxfam face redundancy as the sexual misconduct scandal hits the charity's income.

The Cowley based charity said in the region of 100 staff could be affected as it needs to 'live within its means'

It is another blow for Oxfam which also revealed last week that its chief executive Mark Goldring will stand down at the end of the year

Oxfam will not bid for government money which gives about £30million per year, while a number of other high profile donors have halted funding until they receive assurances from the charity about how it will prevent sexual misconduct in future

An Oxfam spokesperson said, "We are having to reorganise our work in order to ensure we live within our means while doing all we can to protect the support we give to millions of people striving to escape poverty and survive humanitarian disasters.

Stepping down Oxfam chief executive Mark Goldring

"Some donors have paused new funding of our work pending reassurances. Sadly this will mean that we will lose some great people in our international programmes and in the UK.

"We are still working through the effect this will have on redundancies but our estimate at the start of the process was that it could affect in the region of 100 staff in the UK."

The charity has received significant criticism from government about its handling of sexual misconduct allegations in Haiti in 2011.

The charity is also the subject of a Charity Commission inquiry into its safeguarding practices and its response to claims of sexual misconduct.

It was announced last Wednesday that Mr Goldring would be stepping down as chief executive.

Mr Goldring, who was criticised for his handling of the claims that aid workers used prostitutes in 2011 said someone else should 'rebuild the charity

In a statement, he said, "I think that this journey will best be led by someone bringing fresh vision and energy and making a long-term commitment to see it through."

Oxfam said Mr Goldring s resignation had "absolutely nothing to do with his handling" of the crisis

Unite, the union that represents Oxfam workers called on Mr Goldring to leave immediately and for Oxfam to appoint a new chief executive as soon as possible to 'reassure' staff

Funds on offer for community

By George Welch

COMMUNITY groups and local charities are being invited to apply for a share of a £10 000 grant

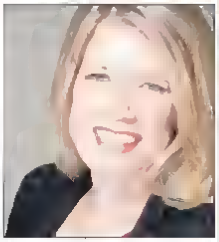
After a successful pilot from January to March, Oxford City Council has announced it will offer further grants of up to £1,000 through its 2018 Small Grants Scheme.

Cash will be available to groups promoting equality, community cohesion, healthy living and those that tackle poverty and deprivation through the online matching platform the Good Exchange.

In the pilot project, the council awarded £4 000 to groups including Oxfordshire Play Association (£590) to help deliver play work diplomas for up to nine people who are long-term unemployed or in low skilled, low-paid work.

My Life My Choice was given £1 200 towards three social sessions of the Stingray Club for people with learning disabilities and £2 241 to the Young People's Puppet Theatre to work with 35 children at Wolvercote Primary School to make puppets and to fund performances for the community

Bryan Michell of Oxfordshire My Life My Choice Association, said: "We found that the Good Exchange was an excellent platform for charities like ourselves, to apply for grant funding and will be helpful for us to access different sources of funding. The process was straightforward, streamlined and easy to use."



Supporting groups Cllr Marie Tidball says it demonstrates the council's commitment to help

Councillor Marie Tidball, executive board member for supporting local communities, said: "We are very pleased to open the second round of the Small Grants Scheme to local charities and community groups through the Good Exchange.

"This online platform demonstrates the city council's commitment to seek innovative ways of supporting groups and organisations in Oxford, allowing them to fundraise more effectively."

Charities and organisations are encouraged to apply for funding as soon as possible before the closing date of March 1, 2019

Oxford City Council released images of the unit being dropped into position at the site near Horspath on Saturday

In a tweet, the council said: "The first module for the pavilion at Oxford Sports Park has been lifted into place

"The pavilion will feature changing rooms, a kitchen and social and storage space to support the new pitches."

Building started in September last year and the park is due to open in the summer

'City must be for everyone'

By George Welch

OXFORD East MP Anneliese Dodds has blamed the government for the city's housing crisis

Speaking in the House of Commons last week, the Labour member said wrong-headed policies are preventing the city 'being a city for everyone'

Ms Dodds said Oxford is the least affordable place in Britain to buy a home – with the average property costing 16 times the mean salary

She said: "Rents have rocketed, and we now have up to 60 people rough sleeping on our streets of a night. That has happened despite huge local effort to improve the situation.

"In Oxford new developments must include at least half affordable housing, of which 60 per cent must be at social rents. We have one of the strictest regimes in the country for landlord registration.

"The council is establishing a new local housing company and is investing to ensure that our council homes are of a decent standard, and we have retained full council tax relief for low-income families, despite government cuts.

"Even with that local effort rents and purchase prices are massively out of reach for many – the lack of affordable rented properties is fuelling our rough sleeping crisis."

Ms Dodds outlined three further factors she believes are contributing to an increased number of rough sleepers: benefit cuts and freezes; cuts to hostel funding from the county council and cuts to support services.

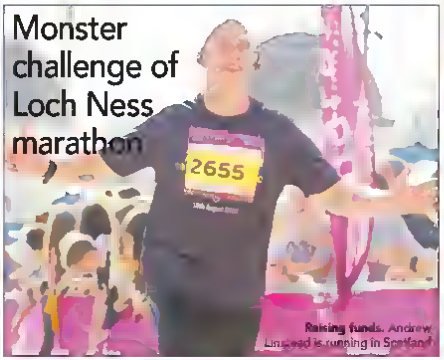
There are currently 180 beds in Oxford for rough sleepers, with more expected next year as well as a specialist hostel being set up in Cowley.

Ms Dodds said: "These measures are against the grain of wrong-headed government policies which are stopping my city from being a city for everyone – which it always has been until now – to a place where you can only be secure if you're wealthy."

The former MEP described how Oxford needs an estimated 25,000 new homes by 2031 to keep up with current demand. This is an 'incredibly tall order' she said.

Ms Dodds also invited James Brokenshire, the secretary of state for housing, to visit Oxford to 'talk to families in need', many of whom are 'overcrowded'.

Monster challenge of Loch Ness marathon



Raising funds. Andrew Linstead is running in Scotland

AN Oxford runner will complete a monster of a marathon to raise funds for charity after his relatives had their stomachs removed.

Andrew Linstead, from Oxford, was one of the lucky ones in his family who did not test positive for the CDH1 gene marker that could have required a total gastrectomy.

A number of Andrew's cousins and uncles opted for the surgery and the total removal of the stomach after testing positive for the gene.

Andrew will be joined by family travelling from America to take part in the Loch Ness Marathon on September 23 to raise awareness for No Stomach for Cancer.

The charity is dedicated to supporting research and those people affected by stomach cancer.

Andrew said: "What the Loch Ness Marathon means to me personally is a celebration of life with my family and friends.

"I also want to raise money for a charity that is researching a cure for a type of genetic stomach cancer that has taken members of my family in the UK and America.

"It has also caused others to have their stomach removed at a young age.

"Some of these are running the marathon with the added challenge this causes in nutrition and energy intake."

Arrest after leg broken in attack

A MAN was arrested and another was hospitalised following an assault in Oxford on Monday last week.

At around 6.30pm on Garsington Road, near to the Premier Inn and Oxford Business Park in Cowley, a 55-year-old man was approached by another man close to the ring road.

The victim sustained a broken leg in the attack and was taken to the John Radcliffe Hospital where he required surgery. The suspect ran off towards Oxford Business Park North after carrying out the assault.

He is described as a white man with brown hair, aged in his late twenties to early thirties.

A 26-year old man from Oxford has since been arrested on suspicion of causing GBH and released under investigation.

Officers want to speak to the occupants of a white van, pictured, who stopped to help the victim.

The van has a distinctive blue decal on the rear right hand side.

Call police on 101 quoting reference 43180145640 with information.

Café branches out to provide tea and cakes

A NEW café to support young people while the wait for the West Way shopping centre continues, is opening for a cuppa or two in Botley.

Social enterprise group Branches will transform one of the empty units at West Way for 18 months.

The cafe hopes to open before the summer and will be open to the whole community during the day.

The cafe's focus after school and into the evening will be to provide a safe and fun place for young people to socialise and take part in workshops and other activities.

There will also be opportunities for secondary school children and young adults to be involved in running the business.

Branches director Dave Goodspeed said: "Our vision is of a thriving café, serving the community with young people at its heart. We want to offer a safe and nurturing place for young people to socialise and learn skills."

Branches received £7,000 from Vale of White Horse District Council towards new equipment and initial staff costs while phase one of the shopping centre undergoes redevelopment.

Cllr Charlotte Dickson, cabinet member for community services, said the cafe could become an 'integral' part of the area.

Contact diane@branchesyouth.uk for more information or if you want to volunteer.

Work on the main development will begin next month.

City to trial electric car pop-up charging points

OXFORD will be the first city in the world to test 'pop up' on-street electric vehicle charging points.

The city has been given £474,000 to develop the app-operated system, with the bollards retreating underground when not in use.

Electric vehicle charging firm Urban Electric has developed the technology with 20 of the points to be installed on residential streets.

The UEcona bollards were developed with the 43 per cent of UK homes who have only on-street car parking in mind.

Tom Hayes, Oxford City Council board member for safer and greener environment, said he was thrilled funding had been secured to carry out the trial in Oxford.

"This sits within our practical approach to cleaning up our dirty air," he added.

The council's Sustainable Cities team will work with the authority's company Oxford Direct Services and Scottish and Southern Electricity Networks (SSEN) to install the bollards.

The city council is calling for residents who wish to take part in the trial to contact goultralow@oxford.gov.uk with the subject line Oxpop.

25,000 illegal cigarettes seized in raids

MORE than 25 000 illegal cigarettes with an estimated street value of £8 000 have been seized in raids on shops across Oxfordshire

Trading Standards and police officers discovered the cigarettes at shops in Witney and Cowley – with the help of sharp sniffing Springer Spaniel Scamp.

The teams raided three shops on Sunday following undercover surveillance and tip-offs from the public as part of a crackdown to reduce smoking rates.

Trading Standards operations manager Jody Kerman said it is not only the criminal aspect that concerns the council

"These cigarettes are sold at pocket money prices and so they help recruit the next generation of smokers" he said

Trading Standards which is part of Oxfordshire County Council, said there has been an increase in tip offs from the public since OCC invested in a dedicated tobacco control officer last year

The work is part of a year-long crackdown which began in October Since then 32 000 illegal cigarettes have been seized in Oxfordshire.

According to Trading Standards, illegal cigarettes have a negative financial impact on legitimate businesses and they reduce tax revenue leaving less money for the NHS to help people with smoking related diseases

Visit tinyurl.com/ya298xab to see Scamp in action.

LIKE millions of people around the country traders in Oxford's Covered Market were awash with red, white and blue as they celebrated the royal wedding.

Displays of patriotism could be seen all around the historic market with flags and bunting strung up as shops joined in marking the marriage of Prince Harry and Meghan Markle on Saturday.

The Covered Market Tenants' Association set up a stall in the arcade handing out a variety of treats to mark the special day.

Florists, a cake shop and a beauty goods store all donated free royal themed treats including miniature bouquets, bath bombs and cupcakes.

Shoppers could even tuck into an edible image of the new Duke and Duchess of Sussex.

Pubs all over the city and beyond were showing the ceremony as the county joined in congratulating the bride and groom.

Pensioner conned out of £5,000 by bogus officer

By George Welch

AN 80-year-old woman was scammed out of almost £5,000 after conmen claimed to be phoning from the Metropolitan Police.

Thames Valley Police have issued a warning after the Thame pensioner was called on May 11 and told £4,800 had been fraudulently withdrawn from her account.

The fraudster said it had been intercepted by officers but should be withdrawn from a bank on Thame High Street for the police to check it was not counterfeit.

The elderly woman was told to call back 999 to prove it was not a scam, a tactic used by swindlers who remain on the line then pretend to answer a new call.

She took the cash out and it was collected from her house using a 'code word'.

It is unlikely the money will ever be recovered, police said.

TVP has urged people to remain vigilant after a further £12,000 was almost stolen by fraudsters.

Another Thame resident received a call on April 20 telling them they owed a large amount of unpaid tax and were threatened with arrest.

The victim was 'very frightened' and told not to contact any third parties, including the police, and went on to transfer the £12,000 in three transactions to the fraudsters' account.

However, on this occasion, bank staff were suspicious and contacted the police who stopped two of the transactions. Most of the money was retrieved, police said.

Officers have reminded people that the bank or the police never ask you to meet and hand over money or anything valuable.

They also said neither will ever call to ask you to verify your personal details or pin, or offer to pick up your card by courier.

Anyone concerned about a phone call is told to unplug the phone at the wall, plug it back in then call 101.

Visit tinyurl.com/yalbecxy for more information on how to protect yourself against fraudsters and identity theft.

PC sacked for using 'inappropriate force' on cyclist

A POLICE officer who struck a man with his baton three times and then lied about it has been sacked for using inappropriate force.

PC Adam Scarratt hit a cyclist who did not stop, twice before delivering a third blow of his baton when the man dismounted, knocking him to the floor.

Thames Valley Police said the officer, who was based at Cowley Police station, then gave "dishonest" information about the incident which happened in Oxford on October 4 last year.

He was dismissed by the Force following a misconduct hearing last Wednesday.

The hearing, held at TVP's headquarters in Kidlington, also found he used foul language rather than asking the man, who was cycling along Van Diemen's Lane to stop.

Following the incident, Mr Scarratt provided a statement that was "materially inaccurate and untrue".

Deputy Chief Constable for Thames Valley Police John Campbell, said, "PC Scarratt's actions fell well below the standard expected of our officers in that he used force completely inappropriately, he then acted dishonestly as he gave an account of the incident that was not true.

"As such he has been dismissed from the Force without notice."

£4m hospice extension work will help to offer 'best end-of-life care'

By George Welch

MAJOR work on a multi-million pound extension to Sobell House hospice began this week.

Builders arrived at the Headington hospice s Churchill Hospital base on Monday to start on the new state of the-art clinic end garden annex.

Sobell hopes to open the £4 3million new build, which will provide specialist outpatient services to people with terminal illness, in May next year

It is positive news for the east Oxford hospice which last week launched a recruitment drive after staff shortages forced it to close a third of its beds

The clinic will help patients live at home for longer by providing vital specialist services.

The garden annex will be an easily navigated and colourful six-patient ward designed with dementia patients in mind

Chief executive Diane Gardner, said. "More than two years ago we set out our vision for the future of hospice care in Oxfordshire and the start of the constructian marks a big milestone

"The new spare is a direct response to the increasing demand for end of life care which is being driveo by an ageing population in the county

"This will help us to ensure Oxfordshire is a place where everyone has access to good end of life care, when they needit."

Palliative care consultant Mary Miller added: "Patients and their families who need the services of Sobell House deserve the best care we can provide

"This new purpose-built facihty will improve our ability to provide exceptional care and provide a valuable space to enable care for those who are nearing the end of their life."

The specialist facility will cater for an increasing number of patients with more complex care needs

It has been funded through donations and legacies.

Sobell s clinical lead Tim Harrison said. "As medical techniques develop people are living longer and we have seen a huge increase in patients with complex medical needs who require great skill and dedication from those who care for them

"This pressure will only increase over the next generations and so it is vital that we create the right environment to look after them."

Buildings honoured for architectural excellence

By George Welch

A GROUP of award-winning new and renovated buildings will compete with the best the UK has to offer in architectural excellence after triumphing at regional awards

The Royal Institute of British Architects (RIBA) last week progressed four Oxford buildings from its South Awards 2018 singling out two buildings for special praise

The Sultan Nazrin Shah Centre at Worcester College won the Royal Institute of British Architects' South Building of the Year Award.

Meanwhile, the New Library at the Queen's College scooped the RIBA South Conservative Award.

The Big Data Institute in Old Road and the Hubert Perrodo Building at St Peter's College were also winners on the 12 strong shortlist.

However The College Hub at Kellog College missed out

Oxfordshire won half of the eight awards handed out in the south region. Berkshire won two, while Buckinghamshire and Hampshire were given one each.

Adrian James regional jury chair, said. "Oxford generally dominates the architecture of the region. The university and the colleges have an eye-popping track record as patrons and that tradition shows no sign of waning.

"The standard of the submitted buildings in Oxford this year was quite superb. Most should achieve national and even international recognition."

All winners from the regionals, including the four from Oxford, will now go through as contenders for RIBA's national awards next month.

Caitlin's inspirational boxes

AN inspirational young Oxfordshire entrepreneur was a cut above the rest after her £10 business idea collected a top award.

Caitlin Hope, 12, from Icknield Community College was given £10 and four weeks to set up a business and make as much profit as she could as part of the National Tenner Challenge.

Caitlin won the Most Inspiring Individual Award for her company Buddy in a Box ahead of 27,179 other students at a ceremony on May 9, held at the Bank of England.

Caitlin's Buddy in a Box idea aimed to help tackle depression, anxiety and mental health issues with tokens of kindness in small gift boxes others could buy for friends and family

Assistant head teacher Vicky Pickford said: "Tenner has been a fantastic opportunity for students to experience the challenges of starting a new business – for example, the students have developed problem solving skills and resilience."

The Tenner programme, supported by Business Growth Fund, provides students with real money for their business idea to gain first-hand experience of what it's like to be an entrepreneur

At the end of the month participants return their £10 pledges with a £1 legacy donation to Young Enterprise and can keep the remaining profits

Caitlin opted to give the profits from Buddy to a Box to Rosie's Rainbow Fund which helps sick and disabled children.

From lab to pub for scientists with pint or two of knowledge

By George Welch

Unique event: Jason Nursa gave a talk about cybercrime while Anna Machin shared science secrets of new fathers

SCIENTISTS swapped the lab for the pub to serve beer lovers spirited discussion, pondering everything from cybercrime to Brexit.

Punters drank in unique talks, demonstrations and close up experiments when more than 30 scientists and experts popped up in city watering holes last week.

The popular extravaganza proved science does not have to be stuffy with boffins fascinating facts and figures washed down each evening with science-inspired activities including live experiments, quizzes and games.

Fourteen of the 18 events as part of the three-day event across the city sold out.

Oxford researchers spoke about a variety of topics at public places across the city including St Aldates Tavern, Turl Street Kitchen, The Jericho Tavern, Oxford Retreat, House Bar and Wig and Pen.

An Oxford University senior researcher highlighted the significance of cybercrime today in a talk at St Aldates Tavern.

He said. "I love to participate in public engagement activities and with Pint of Science, it's really unique as it's science in the comfort of a pub.

"It was a great event and I honestly believe everyone went away with a better understanding of online security and how to protect themselves from cyber crime. I even learned lots from the audience."

Fellow Oxford academic Anna Machin hosted one of the sold out educational cum-alcohol talks, with her specialty being on what happens in the brain and body of new fathers

She said. "I love speaking at Pint of Science because it gives me the chance to tell the public directly about my work and get their feedback.

"They are always a great, engaged audience and their questions often lead me to develop whole new areas of research – it's invaluable."

Thousands of scientists spoke in nearly 300 cities across 21 countries as part of this year's Pint of Science event.

The festival was established six years ago by a group of UK-based postgraduate and postdoctoral researchers wanting to make science more understandable

Oxford publicity and website manager Jessica Davies said. "I am passionate about making the latest science accessible to the public.

"Pint of Science is a brilliant opportunity for this, and it's amazing how far across the world it extends – this year 21 countries and nearly 300 cities got involved."

Starting a cycling chain reaction

AN Oxfordshire councillor is pedalling the cause for more residents to take up cycling as a means to get fit and healthy

Oxfordshire's cycling champion, Cllr Suzanne Bartington, said getting on a bike rather than hopping in the car for the daily commute can improve fitness and help the environment.

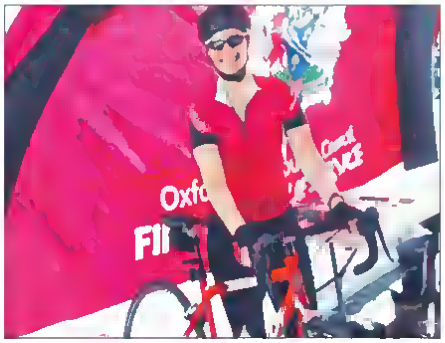
She said "Figures show that people who cycle to work have a 45 per cent lower risk of developing cancer and 46 per cent lower risk of cardiovascular disease compared to using the car or public transport.

"People who cycle regularly in mid-adulthood typically enjoy a level of fitness equivalent to someone 10 years younger and their life expectancy is two years above the average – all great reasons to add cycling to your daily routine."

Cllr Bartington regularly meets with cycling groups to help develop a long-term vision for cycling in the county

The Witney-based councillor competed in the Bike Oxford event on Saturday taking part in the 50mile ride through the city s historic centre before venturing out into the heart of the Cotswolds

She added: "Cycling is one of the best ways to fit exercise into your daily routine and is a great form of transport as well, saving you money getting you fit and helping the environment."



Gearing up: County councillor Suzanna Barbington took part in her second Bike Oxford event on Sunday

Fighting fraud and IT hackers

FAKE online auctions, bogus tech support requests and social media hackers have made Thames Valley the third most targeted police force area in the UK for online scams

A report by internet service provider TalkTalk, who worked with Action Fraud to analyse Home Office data, found 5 090 cases of online scams reported in the Thames Valley between October 2015 and September 2017

Online shopping and auctions (2 455 cases) computer software service fraud (1,990) email/social media hacks (351) personal computer hacks (225) and extortion (69) were the most popular forms of fraud.

Donna Moore, Head of Scam Prevention at TalkTalk said. "Scams are becoming increasingly sophisticated crimes that affect the whole country"

A spokesperson for Thames Valley Police, said: "We would advise members of the public to take all precautions to protect themselves from cybercrime

"Our recent Protect Your World Campaign gave information on how to stay safe online such as regularly changing passwords, having up to date virus software and not giving out personal details."

People concerned they may be a victim of a cybercrime should report it to Action Fraud on 0300 123 2040 or visit https://bit.ly/2yWfw9A

Ex MP's attack on state of roads

A FORMER Oxfordshire MP launched a stinging attack on the county council and its management of the county s roads following a chaotic journey into Oxford.

Nicola Blackwood, who represented Oxford West and Abingdon between 2010 and 2017, sprung a tirade of complaints on the highways agency on Twitter earlier this month.

The Conservative said the government was right not to devolve further powers when Oxfordshire County Council "just keeps getting it wrong with its current responsibilities"

Ms Blackwood posted: "Chaotic journey into Oxford tonight. Lanes closed, gridlock, very dark with poor signs and several accidents.

"No sign of any actual work being done"

She added the hashtag #musttryharder at the end of her tweet.

OCC responded by asking Ms Blackwood which route she was taking and for more specific details of the problems she encountered.

She had not given further details by the time we went to press.

Conservative county councillor Liam Walker, who represents Hanborough and Minster Lovell, suggested Ms Blackwood got the train instead.

He said. "Sounds so chaotic – lanes are closed for work to be done safely

"It generally is dark at night, this isn't the fault of the council.

"Other drivers seem to be able to see signs [and] accidents are not the fault of OCC

"Perhaps get the train if it's all so bad on the roads"

PAIN FREE DENTISTRY

Dentistry has evolved and your desire to have lovely and healthy teeth delivered in a modern, pain-free and relaxing manner is a realistic expectation. At The White Bridge Clinic, systems have been implemented to ensure you receive the most comfortable treatment, from pain-free injections to no more impressions and total relaxation with sedation we strive to make your visits the best you have ever had.

Fear of injections is now a thing of the past. Come and experience the future of advanced dentistry.

SEDATION

Is your dental anxiety preventing you from having your dental treatment? If so, sedation is the perfect answer for you. With intravenous sedation, you will become drowsy and unaware of the treatment, but you will still be able to co-operate with the dentist.

Most dental anxieties are overcome with our caring and relaxing approach to your dental care, however, sedation is useful when treatment is urgent, complex or anxieties are very high. Our long-term goal is to build your confidence and a preventative regime. Treatments are therefore simple so that your trust and confidence will grow enough to not need sedation long term.

We believe in getting to know our patients and in doing so we allocate longer appointment times as we want to ensure you are receiving the highest quality of care. We want the time you spend at the practice to be as comfortable as possible.

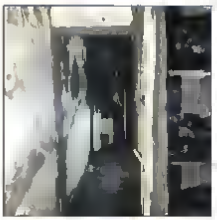
If you are nervous about visiting the dentist or having injections, talk to our team today

QUICKSLEEPER 5

An innovative computerised anaesthetic system is available to our patients in our commitment to giving you the most comfortable experience available. This device allows you to have one or several teeth anaesthetised painlessly and quickly, leaving you with no numb lips and cheeks as associated with old fashion injection techniques. This means less time for you in the dental chair and quick recovery time following your treatment allowing you to get on with your day

TRIOS INTRAORAL SCANNER

Many patients do not like the putty moulds in their mouths and for some, it can be a reason not to go to the dentist. At The White Bridge Clinic, an investment has been made in the state of the art digital scanner which replaces the old fashion putty moulds. Through a series of photos (thousands), an image of the teeth is taken. Not only does this increase the comfort of your visits but the quality is far higher and accurate than conventional impressions



Smoking in bed causes flat fire

AN Oxford flat was engulfed in flames within six minutes after a man smoking in bed set fire to his sheets.

Fire crews from Blue Watch, Rewley Road and Slade fire stations in the city attended the flat fire in Greys Road, Headington just before 9pm on May 13.

The bedding caught alight and the fire rapidly spread throughout the property. The emergency services did not specify whether the man had fallen asleep prior to the fire.

By the time crews arrived six minutes later the flat was completely up in flames, the service said.

Residents in the property escaped with minor smoke inhalation after being alerted by smoking alarms.

Crew manager Lewis Sigsworth said: "It is very important that people are aware of the dangers of smoking in bed and the need to have working smoke alarms."

Not up to it on the pitch, try out virtual football?

By George Welch

TWO of Oxfordshire's most well-known sports teams have ventured into virtual reality by launching eSports teams.

Grove-based Williams will primarily compete in Formula 1's eSports Series later this year while Oxford United will battle virtual opponents in leagues and cup competitions on Fifa 2018 for the Playstation 4.

United have partnered up with Virtual Pro Gaming, a virtual football website, with trials for the first and reserve teams earlier this month.

More than 30,000 people play VPG leagues from more than 80 countries and, more broadly, the global eSports market generated nearly $493million in 2016. Its audience the previous year was 226 million people.

U's spokesman Chris Williams said it was a "really exciting" project for the club, which has first and reserve teams, to be involved in.

He said: "Virtual sports are growing all the time and millions of people are involved.

"VPG have been trying it out already and are half way through their current season, the feedback is excellent and we look forward to featuring news and updates on our social media pages and on the official Youtube channel."

Goal: Be a virtual player with Oxford United

Meanwhile, Javier Guerra, the founder of JIM Racing, a Spanish simulator racing team founded in 2011, will be responsible for Williams eSports activities in the sim racing world.

With the exception of Ferrari, all current Formula 1 teams have committed to setting up and entering their own eSports teams in the second edition of the virtual world championship, which uses the official licensed Codemasters games on all platforms.

The first three drivers signed to the Williams eSports roster are Javier Perez, Jani Vitsaniemi and Bernardo Perez.

The trio will be given the opportunity to work and train at the team's base in Grove, as well as a chance to work in Williams' simulator.

Competitions will be run during the season for gamers to earn their place on the roster for a variety of sim racing tournaments.

"eSports has grown dramatically in recent years to become a huge global industry, so we're eager to take on the challenge of growing sim racing's place in the eSports world," Guerra said.

Explaining the challenges: Deirdre Nic Sitric addresses delegates

Helping girls with autism

TEACHING and support staff were brought together to offer guidance on managing mental health challenges in girls with autism.

Begbroke-based LVS Oxford, a special school for young people with autism, welcomed guest speaker Deirdre Nic Sitric, from Autism Champions, to help improve the understanding of girls' experience of autism.

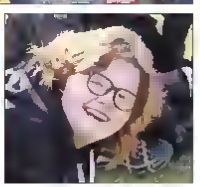
Mare men and boys are currently diagnosed as autistic than women and girls – but research from the National Autistic Society shows many autistic traits in females are not recognised.

This can result in misdiagnosis, late diagnosis, or women and girls not being diagnosed at all.

Amelia Dean, a sixth former at LVS Oxford who was diagnosed with autism in Year 8, said: "I always found it very hard to explain how I was feeling and always felt like the odd one out.

"I joined LVS Oxford in September 2017 and this has been the first school that has been positive for me."

The school had a Girls with Autism conference in December and the latest training session highlighted the need for a greater understanding of what it feels like to be a girl with autism, head of school Louisa Allison-Bergin said.



'Odd one out': Amelia Dean

She added: "A high percentage of girls with autism feel like the odd one out."

We sit on at least £572 each in untouched clothing – that's more than 365 million abandoned dresses, coats and shirts – according to VoucherCodes.

But it doesn't have to be that way

A good declutter can not only free your home – but your pre-loved goods could also be the 'treasure' of those in need.

Helen & Douglas House is asking the people of Oxfordshire to declutter their homes and wardrobes this month and donate unwanted items to one of its 15 shops across the county

Every item donated will raise money for the East Oxford charity, making a real difference to the lives of families with terminally ill children and young adults

Each bag of donations could be worth £30 – enough for a nurse to visit a terminally ill child at home.

Books, bric-a-brac, clothes, shoes, accessories, electrical items and furniture can all be donated – and there's even a free collection service for the latter

Marie McVicar, mum of Ollie who died aged seven and loved going to Helen House, urged people to dig out their old 'stuff'

She said: "The love and support we received from Helen & Douglas House over the years and especially towards the end means so much to us as a family

"Please declutter and donate to your local Helen & Douglas House shop as the charity needs you to help families like us."

Chris Coe, director of retail at Helen & Douglas House, said donations are desperately needed to support terminally ill youngsters and their families.

He added: "Many of us fill our homes with things we don't use and sometimes don't even like, or have outgrown. If have clutter in your home or wardrobe this is a great time to have a clear out.

"Many people don't realise that your unwanted item could be our treasure and [donations] will not only prevent huge waste and prevent topping up tips and landfill sites but will actually make a real difference to the lives of local families."

THE OXFORD PAPER

Ex-air traffic controller is county chairman

A FORMER air traffic controller has flown to the top job in Oxfordshire County Council.

County councillor Gill Sanders will take on the role of chairman after a career that began as one of the country's first female air traffic control assistants

The former lord mayor of Oxford has been a county councillor since 2012 and served as a city councillor for 26 years before standing down this year

She was vice chairman of the council in 2017/18 and worked closely with husband Cllr John Sanders during his spell as chairman in 2014/15

The role of chairman is the authority's equivalent of a mayor at town or city councils

She said working as an air traffic control assistant surrounded by men gave her a "really good grounding" and built her confidence

"I thought to myself 'if you can do this you can do anything you want to'," she said

Originally from Swansea, the mother of two and grandmother has lived in Oxford for 41 years.

She has chosen to support homeless charity The Porch and Rose Hill Junior Youth Club during her year as chairman.

Remembering the victims of Grenfell blaze

CAMPAIGNERS in Oxford gathered to hold a vigil in memory of the Grenfell tower victims nearly one year on from the tragedy

More than 80 people supported the Oxford Stand Up to Racism Justice for Grenfell event on Monday last week with city councillors and Oxford students gathered in the city centre.

June 14 will mark the one year anniversary of the tower block blaze in London in which 72 people died when dangerous cladding caught fire.

The Oxford event coincided with a petition lodged with the government calling for Grenfell victims and their families to have the right to speak through legal representation at the public inquiry

Cllr Shasta Aziz and Cllr Lubna Arshad spoke at the vigil in front of students from Balliol, Wadham and Sommerville colleges while Oxford poet Rup Buckley delivered a sonnet leading a minute's silence.

Ian Mckendrick, from Oxford Stand Up To Racism, said "The Grenfell survivors and the families of the victims have every right to be worried about the conduct of the public inquiry

"It is vital a spotlight is shone to uncover all the factors that lead to the Grenfell disaster to make sure it never happens again."

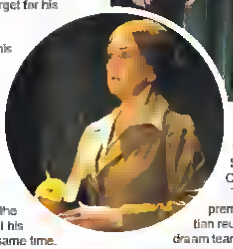
Curtain falls for Holmes

By Samantha McGregor



TWO of the UK's most popular actors Robert Powell and Liza Goddard are set to star in a gripping new thriller, Sherlock Holmes: The Final Curtain.

Holmes lives in retirement on the South Coast – he keeps bees occasionally casts his fly fishing rod – even plays his Stradivarius when the rheumatism allows.

All too aware that he's older and slower, he's concerned that he might have lost his touch and paranoid that he is an easy target for his enemies.

So when Mary Watson – the wife of his former associate Dr John Watson – tracks him down in Ja!l him she has seen her long-dead son James through the window of 221B Baker Street, apparently alive and well. Holmes is determined to solve the mystery and confront his own demons at the same time.

Chilling and filled with unforeseen twists and revelations, this new play featuring Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's legendary super sleuth has been commissioned by Theatre Royal Bath from award-winning dramatist Simon Reade, who was previously literary managar at the Royal Shakespeare Company.

This world premiere production reunites the dream team of Robert Powell and Liza Goddard following huge acclaim for their performances in Alan Ayckbourn's Relatively Speaking.

Robert, who is best known for his role in Jesus of Nazareth, also played the fictional secret agent Richard Hannay and Mark Williams in BBC One medical drama Holby City.

While Liza Goddard's career goes back to the 1960s with roles in shows including Skippy the Bush Kangaroo, Minder, Watch This Space, Doctor Who and Bergerac, and was the subject of This is your Life in 1984.

The production takes to the Oxford Playhouse stage from Monday, June 11 to Saturday, June 16.

Tickets start at £10 and are available from the ticket office on 01865 305305 or at oxfordplayhouse.com

Get set for some mischief

MISCHIEF Theatre, the multi award-winning company behind the global smash hit comedy The Play That Goes Wrong, return to the city with their new production.

Taking to the Oxford Playhouse from June 6 to 10, Mischief Movie Night, is an improvised movie live on stage.

The show, which was nominated for the 2018 Olivier Award for Best New Comedy, stars the original cast and creators of The Play That Goes Wrong, Peter Pan Goes Wrong and The Comedy About a Bank Robbery on stage, and BBC TV Christmas Specials A Christmas Carol Goes Wrong and Peter Pan Goes Wrong.

Mischief Movie Night invites the audience to direct the action, suggesting a genre, location and title, and a movie is brought to life on stage, complete with rewinds, fast forwards, directors cuts and a live score.

Charlie Russell, of Mischief Theatre, said: "It's a joy to bring Mischief Movie Night to such welcoming venues, all of which have played to 100 per cent capacity with our Goes Wrong shows.

"Returning to our improv roots is very special for us as this is where it all began. We're very excited!"

Mischief Theatre was founded in 2008 by a group of graduates of The London Academy of Music and Dramatic Art (LAMDA) and began as an improvised comedy group.

Tickets for Mischief Movie Night at Oxford Playhouse start at £10 and are available from the ticket office on 01865 305305 or view oxfordplayhouse.com

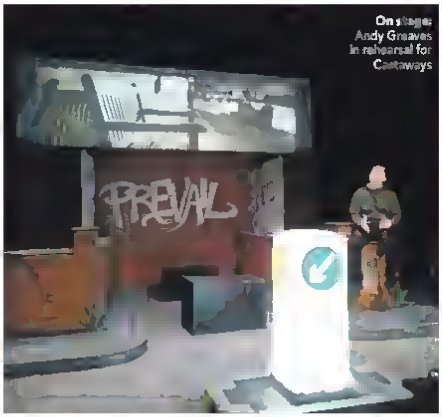
Close friends, poles apart

By Samantha McGregor



On stage: Andy Greaves in rehearsal for Castaways

OXFORD-BASED Mandala Theatre are gearing up to bring their newly-commissioned social justice play to the city.

Mandala Theatre tackles contemporary concerns about identity, race and displacement among young people from diverse communities.

Castaways, written by award-winning young playwright Abha Sen Gupta, is about what happens when close friends are divided by a single shattering event.

Yasmin Sidhwa, Mandala's founder, who directed the show said: "We've developed the play by holding workshops with young people in Oxford and other cities – and we'll be giving audiences a chance to respond in post-show discussions across the country."

She continued: "The issues we deal with could not be more relevant in today's society where communities are becoming more and more divided.

"We're lucky to have received funding to explore this with marginalised young people – and our tour plan is designed to take in cities where migration, radicalisation and alienation are widespread."

Since its inception in 2015, Mandala Theatre Company have been making a name for themselves with a programme of newly commissioned work which tackles matters of social justice in new and exciting ways.

Their first play, Night Light, saw the company's young actors shine a spotlight on young people seeking asylum.

Now, Castaways explores community and tribal loyalties among three friends, torn on the same day, in the same town but with very different backgrounds.

The show will take place at The Old Fire Station on June 1 and 2, showing at various times.

Tickets start from £6 and can be purchased from oldfirestation.org.uk or by calling 01865 263980.

The show is suitable for ages 13 and over.

There will be a chance to talk about the issues raised in the play at a post-show discussion.

Heading to the Unicorn Theatre in Abingdon next month is the talented singer-songwriter Anna Ryder.

The multi-instrumentalist's songs are consistently original and inventive.

She combines a captivating stage presence with an endearing naivety that reaches out to the audience. Her musical style, although based in folk, spans many genres.

She has performed mainly on the folk scene, playing venues from small clubs to large festivals.

2016 marked Anna's sixth album, the long-awaited The Art of Making Faces and she is now working on her seventh.

As well as her solo work, Anna is part of the trio IOTA playing with Mar on Fleetwood and Sally Barker.

MOJO magazine recently described her as "a rare originality. A singer-songwriter with depth and integrity."

The gig will take place on June 14 at 7pm with music starting at 7.15pm.

Full price tickets cost £15. For more information or to book visit musicatttheunicorn.org.uk.

All profits from the theatre go into improving the facilities and into bringing an even greater variety of talented bands, singers and instrumentalists to Abingdon.

GIVING THE BANK OF MUM AND DAD A BOOST WITH EQUITY RELEASE

In today's expensive property market your home could help put your children on the property ladder

The first steps onto the property ladder can be a daunting challenge. With house prices continuing to increase, that first property can appear further away than ever for the UK's would-be first-time buyers[1]. This has seen an increasing turn towards the "Bank of Mum and Dad" for financial support. Recent research indicates that the average amount lent to children by their parents for support in the property market is over £18,000, although a significant number - 41pc - cannot offer this financial support[2].

For over-55 UK homeowners there is a way to use the value of your property to give the "Bank of Mum and Dad" a timely financial boost. The home that you have been responsibly investing in for years could turn out to be your secret later life cash reserve. A lifetime mortgage, the most popular way of releasing equity, could allow you to access your property wealth in a way that is convenient, flexible and secure. With the equity released you could then give your nearest and dearest the leg-up onto the property ladder they may need.

There are a range of lifetime mortgage options available to suit your circumstances. A drawdown lifetime mortgage would give you an immediate tax-free cash lump sum, which could be gifted to your children as a contribution towards a house deposit. The remainder of the equity you have released is then kept in an interest free reserve, ready for when you need it. This option can help mitigate the build-up of interest.

By choosing a lifetime mortgage provided by an Equity Release Council approved lender, you can take comfort in several important guarantees. You and your partner retain full ownership of your property for the duration of your lives, or until you enter full-time care. A no negative equity guarantee also means that you will never owe more than the value of your home at the end of the plan.

The money you have access to with a lifetime mortgage is yours to spend entirely as you wish. Why not find out today if your house could help boost the "Bank of Mum and Dad", and give your children an invaluable step-up onto the property market?

[1] The Guardian, 'House prices rise 5% a year in more bad news for would-be buyers', 17/10/17

Bloodline Wills

Does this sound familiar to you?

"We've made our Wills, leaving everything to each other first and then to the children."

These are known as Mirror Wills. Sounds reassuring enough, doesn't it? But your children could end up with very little - or even nothing at all.

Dear Reader,

Where children's inheritance is concerned our clients want certainty. They want to know that their children will one day benefit from all their years of hard work. They usually come to us having already made standard Mirror Wills with another firm. But often doubts remain in their mind.

Modern family life has many twists and turns and clients worry that having left their estate directly to their children in their Will, what would happen if their son had relationship difficulties or their daughter had creditors pressing. Would their inheritance be taken away from them?

April King Legal are specialists in new style Bloodline Wills. Our free information pack shows you how we can update your Will to include bloodline protection for your children and grandchildren.

Kindest,
Paul King

OUR FREE GUIDE SHOWS YOU...

- How to ensure a child's inheritance is protected from hostile third parties
- The difference between joint tenants and tenants in-common
- Why standard 'Mirror Wills' can put a child or other beneficiaries inheritance at risk.
- How to deal with estranged children in your Will
- Lasting Power of Attorney and how they can help you and your family
- Making a Will for the first time
- How to include or exclude step-children / step-grandchildren

DID YOU KNOW...

"If you have a child who has separated but is yet to divorce then their ex is still next in line to inherit from them over and above your grandchildren from that marriage. Should your son or daughter inherit from you before their divorce is finalized then they could end up having to share that inheritance with their estranged spouse. April King's free information pack shows you ways to help prevent this happening and keep inheritance in the family bloodline."

The spectacular event will play host to incredible live demonstrations both on the ground and in the air at the historic site, while the Show's Vintage Village will feature period fairground rides, live music performances, shopping and a huge range of food stalls.

Automobile lovers will delight at the spectacle from the finest that the classic car world has to offer taking to the demo track to show off in glorious tyre-squealing style. Classic motor clubs will stage displays and the open-access paddock lets visitors get up close to these magnificent machines, while there will also be an impressive collection of historic military vehicles on display and even passenger rides in the live-action tank arena.

Moving from the ground to the skies, there will be fantastic air displays of historic aircraft, including daily air displays from the Royal Air Force Battle of Britain Memorial Flight (BBMF) Dakota, the Bremont Great War Display Team and the magnificent trio that is the BBMF Spitfire, Hurricane and Lancaster.

The Bremont Great War Display will stage an exhilarating recreation of a WW1 'dogfight', with aircraft such as Sopwith and Fokker Dr1 triplanes showing just how nimble these early warbirds were. Also taking to the skies will be top display pilot and former British Female Aerobatic Champion Lauren Wilson, who will give a thrilling demonstration of the agility of her glorious bright red Pitts Special aerobatic biplane.

Film buffs are also in for a treat as they'll be able to see filming spots that have been used for box office hits The Imitation Game and The Darkest Hour at Bicester Heritage, the UK's best preserved Second World War Bomber Station.

For your chance to win one of two family tickets to The Classic & Sports Car Show in association with Flywheel just answer the following simple question.

Q: What plane will Lauren Wilson be flying in her display?

A family ticket admits two adults and up to three children (aged 5-15). Entry for children under five years is free, parking is also free.

It's a great weekend for all at MG Live 2018

The world's biggest event for MG cars will take place at Silverstone on June 2-3, with over 90 years of heritage set to be showcased at the MG Car Club's feature-packed MGLive! event.

A family-friendly weekender with attractions for everyone, this will be the event's 68th year, with visitors travelling from as far afield as China, India and Australia to attend. Thousands of MGs from the 1920s right up to the present day will be present over the two days, whether that's in the Concours or Pride of Ownership displays, in the huge model-specific parking areas or being put through their paces in the Live Arena

But that's far from all. Visitors can also enjoy a packed schedule of MG racing on the famous Grand Prix Circuit, a thrilling precision stunt display from Russ Swift and a fantastic Village Green area with live entertainment throughout – including an After Hours party on the Saturday night. A host of specialist traders will be on hand to supply a wide variety of goodies too, while MG Motor will be offering test drives in the latest range of MGs. Some of the cars at the event won't have been seen by UK eyes before, so are bound to cause a stir!

Day and weekend tickets are still available to purchase on the gate, with children under 15 admitted free. Camping pitches and motorhome parking is available for those wishing to make a full weekend of it. Visit www.mglive.co.uk or call 01235 555552 for more information.

May half-term from 28 May - 3 June is all about Adventure, Animation and Land Rovers at the British Motor Museum. 2018 marks the 70th Anniversary of Land Rover and the award winning Museum is celebrating with some fantastic themed activities for families to enjoy.

The new 'Discover Land Rovers' Trail is a family friendly trail where visitors can explore some of the Land Rovers in the Museum's collection in a fun and interactive way. See the first pre-production Land Rover now 70 years old and discover what makes this much loved British brand so iconic.

To round off a visit to the Museum there is the opportunity to make your own short animated film. Drop in to the Learning Space and start by creating a storyboard, then build a Land Rover model to star in your very own animation using 'Animate It!', the easy to use stop motion animation software and app developed by Kudlian Software and Aardman - the world famous animation studio and creators of family favourites such as Wallace & Gromit, Shaun the Sheep and Morph.

Emma Rawlinson, Life Long Learning Officer at the British Motor Museum said "Our aim is to make visiting the Museum as fun and engaging as possible whether you are 0 or 90! Our animation workshops, family trails and special family tours offer plenty to get everyone involved and entertained this May half-term!"

In addition there is a dedicated area for under 5s – where they can explore motoring play with toy cars and a play table as well as sit in the Museum's 'push along' cars.

All activities are included in Museum admission. There is no need to pre-book, just drop into the Learning Spaces when you visit. At busy times timed tickets will be issued. All materials are supplied, just bring your imagination!

Museum admission is charged at: Adults £14, Children £9 (5-16 years) under 5's free, Concessions £12 & a Family £38 (2 adults & up to 3 children). Pay 1 day and get 12 months free if you Gift Aid your entrance.

Walking and running for health in aid of Sobell House

Walking is a fantastic way to improve mental and physical health, through exercise, fresh air, time away from the pressures we face in everyday life.

At Sobell House we attach a lot of importance to the overall well-being of our patients, their physical and mental health matters to us. Our priority is on enabling patients to retain their mobility and independence for as long as possible, and to support people in living as well and as fully as possible in the time that they have left.

Our fantastic multi-disciplinary team, made up of occupational therapists, physiotherapists, a psychiatrist and a range of art therapists, works together to ensure patients have the tools as well as the physical aids that they need to help make many of the small everyday tasks that we all take for granted much more possible. Tasks such as putting on slippers; walking to the end of the garden; going to the toilet on one's own, turning in bed, all these tasks can become overwhelming if people are not equipped to carry them safely. We see that this greater feeling of independence and control has a direct positive impact on the patients' mental health.

The majority of the people who support Sobell House have had a connection with the hospice. We find that many chose physical exercise such as walking and running as their way of showing their gratitude for the services that we provided for a loved one.

So we are keen to give our supporters the opportunity to get fit and feel healthy and, at the same time, help Sobell House to continue to care for people living with a terminal illness across Oxfordshire.

Here are some of the immediate opportunities that you can join to come and get fit with us www.sobellhouse.org for more information or call us on 01865857007

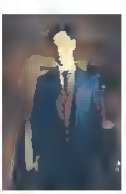
ADVERTORIAL

The Changing Face Of Men's Wedding Attire



British wedding habits have changed rapidly during the last few years, and this evolvement continues into 2018

- The average wedding now costs over £16,000
- The trend for cupcakes is falling out of favour, being replaced with trends like cheese towers.
- Purple is the most popular bridesmaids dress colour
- 18% of newlyweds now honeymoon in the UK and 34% in Europe

These changes are also reflected in what the groom is opting to wear on his big day. At The Cotswold Tailor we have noticed big shifts in demand in both our hire department and our bespoke tailoring service, when it comes to wedding suits

In 2015 we rented out not a single frock coat, and demand for morning coats fell significantly. When we did rent out a morning coat, more often than not the groom has opted to move away from traditional wedding waistcoats, and instead replaced these with tweed (see picture right)

Noticeably with both my bespoke and hire wear clients, there has been a shift towards more tailored, three piece, slim-fit, lounge suits, particularly brighter blue shades. With many of my bespoke clients pointing out the benefits of getting frequent use out of the lounge suit post the wedding

Possibly the biggest trend, however, has been in the rising popularity of tweed. As country/natural themed weddings have grown in popularity so too has the demand for both three piece tweed suits, but also the more relaxed look of a pair of chinos paired with tweed waistcoats and tweed jacket. (see picture right)

This look has become so popular that in 2016 we launched an entire new hire wear range dedicated to tweed.

How to be a winner in Oxford's competitive housing market

Bill Cooper co-author of The Oxford Property Blog and managing director of Martin and Co, Oxford

Asking prices for Oxford homes show no signs of falling up 4% year on year to a new record high average value of £422 157 However, the number of completed transactions in our City is down 11% year on year

The number of houses on the market for sale is high but 11% fewer properties are selling successfully so Oxford has a buyer's market. What can sellers do to optimise the chances of their home selling successfully?

To achieve a sale four factors must be considered Location Condition Presentation and Price We will explore these in turn.

Location

This is fixed your home is where it is What makes it a great place to live? Who is typically attracted to the area? – know your market Will your home and location appeal to first-time buyers young and growing families or investors for example How easy is it to commute to the City centre, to London or to Birmingham? Does it have great road links or great rail links? You have lived in this area for a while, think about what attracted you in the first place and how has it improved since

Condition

Selling a home is competitive Why should buyers make the effort to view if you don t make the effort to present it to its very best standard? Your home must be presented to a high standard to compete effectively This starts with cleaning – from the carpets to the kitchen cupboards the bathroom to the cobwebs in the corner of the downstairs loo and dust on the skirting boards Believe me buyers notice! Employing a contract cleaner to really blitz the place is money well spent.

Do any walls or rooms need re-decorating? – be honest and don t cut corners A tin of paint costs £20 to £30 but it could add £5 000 to the price you achieve. Try to stick to light, neutral colours and avoid dark browns and black. Pay attention to the details – chipped door frames scuffed skirtings and tired window ledges. Are there any fixtures that need fitting or repairing? That blind that s half pulled out of the wall or the door that s sticking And, above all declutter – viewers want to imagine their belongings in your home not yours. There's a reason show homes are immaculate, clutter-free zones!

Think about how some 'steging accessories could be positioned to wow potential buyers Cushions Rugs, posh toiletries can all be used and taken with you. For viewings buy some flowers to add colour and buy bedding and new towels that you only use for viewings and then pack away until the next time Paint a picture for viewers – they can lack imagination so show them how great their life will be in your home

Presentation

Visual appeal is King – whether online in the estate agent s window or in the brochure that viewers take home A minimum of 10 high definition photographs, a floorplan and a description that helps buyers understand why your home is perfect for them. Where are the shops? Where are the Schools? Where are the restaurants and bars? Draw a picture in words of what they will love about you home But everyone has great photos and a floorplan so go further – a 3-dimensional virtual walk through will create interaction boost interest and improve the quality of your viewings – they've already walked round virtually and now they want to do so for real.

Price

When all of the above is in place you must be realistic about price Do your research Use Rightmove and Zoopla to look at comparable properties against which you will compete for attention Buyers will have a forensic knowledge of the local market and will assess it dispassionately You need to do the same.

Many estate agents will allow a buyer to over-price their property, confident that they will secure price reductions over-time But a property has its greatest impact over the first 2-3 weeks on market. So be realistic and don t squander the early marketing

Tha viewing

This is THE critical moment. Plan it carefully Are there times of the day to avoid – because of noise or congestion? Make sure your home looks as good in real life as it d d for the photos Stay enthusiastic – it might be your 10th viewing but it is the viewer s first! Clean tidy declutter and 'stage for every viewing And remember the outside is as important as the inside – first impressions count

Tha sala

Because it is a buyers' market expect to negotiate the price Many Oxford homes sell for prices lower than advertised Know what s your bottom-line and negotiate carefully to achieve it.

Over the last year 2 898 Oxford homes found a buyer and completed a sale, that s 360 fewer than in the previous 12 months. Last year I wrote a guide for Oxford homes sellers – How to sell your home quicker and for more to help buyers understand how to succeed It has proved very popular If you are selling your home and think the guide might be helpful please give Jay Sarbatta a call on 01865812110

It doesn't have to be a jungle out there

The weather has certainly enjoyed an upturn in recent weeks and whilst its longevity over the summer remains to be seen it s certainly at this time of year that we all feel more inclined to venture out la to the garden.

If you re planning to put your property on the market, ensuring that your outside space creates a good first impressino is vital – after all, if you re not proud of what everyone walks past what will the interior be like?

Data varies as to the exact impact that a messy, unattractive garden can have on the overall value of your home, but with easily rising in to the tens of thousands a few hours spent tinkering around on the weekend could be time well spent – nat least of all because purchasers take just a matter of seconds to decide whether they like a property before they've even stepped inside! Research in the past has even suggested that up to a third would not view a house if they were put off by its exterior.

The good news is, though, that you don't have to be a green-fingered Monty Don to make a real difference!

Keeping on top of your lawn s appearance to ensure that it looks neat and tidy may feel mundane but well coifed turf provides the ideal canvas on which to add colour and character in the form of potted plants garden ornaments or perhaps a seat or bench. Hanging baskets additionally add some personality to a home and if you're the sort of person who forgets to do the watering (when nature doesn't provide that itself), plastic topiary balls provide a stylish and care-free alternative!

But whilst your lawn may be the largest part of your garden your attention on this shouldn't detract from keeping paths and patios clear Ensure you regularly remove weeds and carry out a quick sweep before prospective purchasers arrive to view your property This will provide an air of pride before they've even stepped through the front door!

Turning attentions to the borders of your garden, you can be as adventurous (or not!) as your gardening skills allow – just don t leave great expanses of empty soil! Slate or shingle help provide a low maintenance border that creates real impact, or you may be someone who prefers lots of greenery In either scenario, ensure you keep on top of the weeding and educate yourself on less savoury garden invaders such as Bindweed, Marming Glory or worst of all, Japanese Knotweed!

Japanese Knotweed has the potential to grow a staggering foot in just a week and spread up to seven metres in alt directions per season. It has been known to destroy walls and cause significant damage to underground drains so if you fear that it may be in your own garden, you'd be well advised to seek professional advice on its removal before you place your property on the market as any prospective purchaser may have trouble securing a mortgage whilst it remains present

For advice on creating kerb appeal in your garden that will help your property stand out, why not visit one of our five branches across Oxfordshire or log-on to www.andrewsonline.co.uk

Renault KADJAR Expression + TCe 130

Good all-round decent-sized performer

By Tony Yates

I know I keep going on about this, but when you first start looking around for a new car, you will probably spend around 10-20 hours of your life searching on the internet for all the reviews on what's hot to buy and what's not. Well, I'm here to tell you that you need to ignore everything your friends tell you and probably what I tell you, and go out and buy a car based on how you feel when you sit inside for the first time. Only then will you know if you have made the right decision.

Before I go into this week's review I wanted to give a quick shout out to Mr Short who emailed me last week to ask if there is such a thing as 'the perfect car' Well, Mr Short, all I can say is refer to the above statement! Happy motoring my friend.

Power & efficiency

The KADJAR I currently have on test is powered by a 130HP 1.197cc petrol engine with a 6-speed manual gearbox and a respectable top speed of around119mph. It also has a 0-62 time of 10.1 seconds, and with little fuss I managed a combined figure of around 50.4 mpg. Actually having 130HP in a KADJAR, makes it move along at a really good pace, but it did feel a little underpowered. Saying that it was still OK. There is a diesel version and to be fair it's just as good, and it comes with more torque which makes overtaking that little bit easier.

On the road

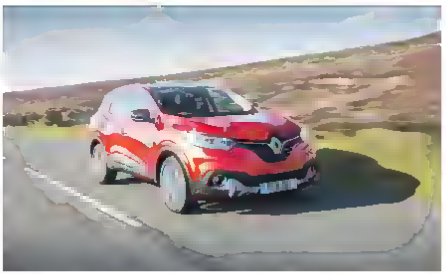
First off – good chassis, along with a suspension set up that feels tight. The steering is also direct and the grip levels are good which gives you a decent amount of confidence into the corners. Going back to the suspension, yes, it feels very controlled and tight, but I felt the ride was far too hard for my liking. But that's just my own opinion and others may find it just about right.

Safety & technology

Renault has carefully crafted the KADJAR to give it a dynamic presence on the road – whilst also introducing some neat touches – like the front flowing grille and headlights which all help in giving it a great look. Then, there are those striking hold and almost stealth looking body lines which actually help finish off the look. All of this, of course, leads into giving the KADJAR a good roadside appeal to the casual admirer.

When it comes to space in the inside then the KADJAR has plenty in that department, so no worries there. I also managed to fit in my whole family and the weekly shopping with very little fuss. The rear seats also have the bonus of splitting 60-40 and are upholstered in a dark carbon fabric which blended in with the rest of the interior. Plus, it looks hard wearing – perfect if you have a family. I also liked the driver's seat which had plenty of adjustment.

Inside, it's all good with a quality interior and soft touch surfaces all round which gives it a nice appeal. The KADJAR is also packed with lots of equipment such as, ABS with EBD, airbags for the driver, front passenger, front & rear curtain & front lateral, Assisted parking brake, cruise control, ECO mode, ESP, insurance approved alarm (Cat 1), ISOFIX points on outer rear seats, hill start assist, manual air conditioning, multi-function trip computer, LED daytime running lights.



Plus Bluetooth connectivity, FM/AM/DAB tuner, 4X20W speakers, audio streaming, hands free calls and USB/AUX sockets.

To sum up

I'm going to give the KADJAR four stars in this test because I believe it's a decent sized car that will tick all the boxes for someone looking for a vehicle that will fulfil all their needs.

Lowe vows car will improve

By George Welch

F1 - Williams

PITIFUL Williams have launched a recovery plan in an effort to lift them from the bottom of the constructors' championship – but Sunday's race in Monaco might be too soon to expect an improvement.

"The pace is really quite bad," is the damning verdict of chief technical officer Paddy Lowe who refuses to mince his words in his assessment of the FW41

The Grove-based outfit are in a spot of bother dropping to the Formula 1 standings just four years on from a third place finish in 2014

A penny for Sir Frank's thoughts as his team, one of the most iconic teams in the sport, have a diminutive three points, 18 fewer than the same stage last season.

But the south Oxfordshire side refuse to write off the season.

"We have put in place a programme with the team, which we call a recovery programme, so you bring the car back to the level we intended to operate," Lowe told the Formula 1 website.

"That programme is timed up to the mid season point. I can't guarantee anything. We just lost our way in some critical areas which we now understand."

Williams' 2018 challenger is the first car Lowe can call his own since joining from Mercedes in 2017

The nine-time constructor winners knew something was wrong with the FW41 as soon as it hit the track for pre-season testing – and fortunes have refused to reverse.

Lowe said, "The car isn't good enough, it's not what it should be.

"There are some issues with it, which fortunately we think we understand and we're very busy doing a lot of work to fix those issues

"None of those fixes are in place [now] unfortunately which is why we were struggling so much at a circuit [Barcelona]

He added, "We are not writing off this season.

"We haven't yet brought anything that solves those, so we shouldn't expect it to be any better But we will do in due course"

Lonely fight: Paddy Lowe accepts he didn't get it right in the FW41

Sunday's Monaco GP will be challenging for Williams, particularly as it is a circuit where they have struggled in recent years.

Positive signs ahead of test

Moto GP

BRADLEY Smith was pleased with his performance and his team's improvement ahead of Spain's MotoGP test

The KTM racer picked up two points after finishing 14th in Sunday's Grand Prix de France at Le Mans for a second successive top-15 finish.

It was another positive result for the Forest Hill rider who is out to secure a 2019 ride after being replaced.

The 27-year-old started from the sixth row in France and battled with Marc VDS's Franco Morbidelli late on, but had to be content with 14th.

Smith said "I was pleased with the race. I lost a bit of time at the beginning with the battling on the opening laps.

"I was keeping stable with the guys by mid race and then struggled to get back to them

"Fourteenth is another points scoring position and I was having a good fight with Morbidelli at the end.

"We improved another 15 seconds over our race distance last year so again KTM is making gains but the competition keeps getting higher and higher."

MotoGP teams put their bikes through their paces at a two-day test in Barcelona from Monday

The next race is in Mugello as the circuit heads to Italy on June 3.

All ready for the glitz and glamour of Monaco

F1 - Haas

THE 2017 Monaco Grand Prix proved to be a milestone event for Haas as the American side celebrated its first ever double-points finish.

Now in its third season, the Banbury prepared outfit have not stopped growing and have set their sights on more points in the French municipality on Sunday

Haas are enjoying something of a growth spurt, displaying impressive pace and performance in all five races so far, even if they do not have the points to back it up

Kevin Magnussen heads to Monaco with a hot hand. He has scored as many top-six finishes in his last four races (two) as he had previously scored in his F1 career

Pointless team-mate Romain Grosjean, meanwhile, is up against a stacked deck. He will serve a three-place grid penalty in Monaco after the incident which forced his retirement last time out in Spain.

The Frenchman has set out for a solid qualifying performance which he said is "pretty much everything."

He added "Then in the race, you need to stay in between the walls and wait. Sometimes nothing will happen, sometimes a lot will happen and you can gain some positions. We're going to focus on qualifying."

Enstone-based Renault are aiming to maintain their 'best of the rest' status at the legendary Circuit de Monaco after moving to fourth in the constructors' championship

Chance to shine for amateurs

Golf

A FEAST of top class amateur golf will be on show when the Brabazon Trophy is played at Frilford Heath next week.

An international field will compete for the highly prized trophy at the Oxfordshire course from next Thursday to Sunday

It is a title that all amateurs want on their golfing CV and past champions include major winners Sandy Lyle and Charl Schwartzel.

Heavyweights Justin Rose, Rory McIlroy and recent GolfSixes winner Paul Dunne are among past challengers

Alistair Booth, Frilford Heath chairman and Berks, Bucks & Oxon president, said the event is a perfect opportunity to catch some top quality players destined for the professional circuits

He added. "We'd love to welcome everyone with an interest in golf and we're hoping for lots of spectators from local clubs and that families will see this as a great day out."

Admission is free

The main contenders will include England's Todd Clements and Matthew Jordan, who are both ranked in the amateur world top 20 – and are in sizzling form.

Jaguar overcome radio problems to record solid result

Formula E

JAGUAR battled radio feedback problems to return to the points at Sunday's Berlin E-Prix.

The Grove-based team discovered just before the race that Mitch Evans, although able to hear his team's communications, could not provide feedback.

However, the Kiwi brought his I-TYPE 2 home in sixth, higher than his qualifying position of ninth, for eight points.

Evans was able to match the energy levels of the race leaders but was unable to break into the top five

He said, "Finishing in the points is the best we could have hoped for after a tough day

"I was feeling optimistic before we started and thought we had a good chance

"We haven't felt massively comfortable with the set up all day but I'm happy with the race and taking points home is a solid result."

Can anybody hear me? Mitch Evans finished sixth despite not being able to communicate with his team

Team-mate Nelson Piquet was also in the battle for points but, despite running as high as ninth, was made to pay when he overshot turn one on the final lap and lost a few places. The Brazilian finished 12th.

Jaguar remain fifth in the standings, 12 points behind Mahindra in fourth

Meanwhile, Grove-based racer Alex Lynn finished 16th for DS Virgin Racing.

Oxford United 2017/18 season: January – May

Rocky road to safety but full of promise for the season ahead

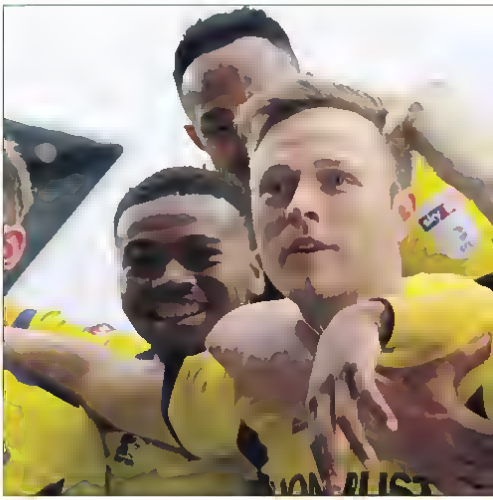
THE deadwood has been given the boot and the pre-season fixtures have been pencilled in the diary

And that's just as well for Oxford United fans, who will be in a rush to put the 2017/18 season at the back of their minds.

Between August and May the U's teased their fans as they flirted with the play-offs before dragging them into a relegation battle and a laughable 59-day managerial hunt.

There was no cup run of previous years, but there was at least a positive start – a takeover and saviour Karl Robinson rescued them from the drop. But what will 2018/19 bring?

George Welch continues his look back on the 2017/18 season examining the second half of the campaign



April – We are staying up! Todd Kane gives United the lead and the win from the penalty spot against Rochdale

January

IT was a long road to redemption for Pep Clotet following the previous month's 7-0 humiliation against Wigan Athletic.

2018 actually started well for the U's, winning back-to-back home games against MK Dons and Blackpool.

A penalty shootout win against Karl Robinson's Charlton Athletic followed as United edged a round closer to another Wembley appearance in the Checkatrade Trophy.

But the performances and atmosphere around the club remained flat.

Clotet, who hired a business to help with his image, had lost the fans and, reportedly, some of the players.

The Spaniard started the new year on thin ice which eventually gave way following a timid surrender against League Two-bound Bury.

Clotet tried but did not help himself, especially when the U's manager allegedly shushed critical supporters during his last game in charge.

With little board support – Darryl Eales' presence was much diminished in comparison to previous years – the writing was on the wall for the Catalonian.

Pep left the club in 10th place, eight points off both the play-offs and the relegation zone. He led Oxford to 12 wins, 11 draws and 13 defeats in his time in charge.

Derek Fazackerley was put in 'temporary charge' a role the former assistant boss would fill for an almost comical two months as the club juggled a potential takeover, winter transfers and manager recruitment.

Then prospective owner Sumrith Thanakarnjanasuth became more involved with the club and it was later revealed the man known as Tiger had part-funded United's winter transfers.

In came Cameron Brannagan (Liverpool) and Robert Dickie (Reading) on permanent deals while Todd Kane (Chelsea), Isaac Buckley-Ricketts and Ashley Smith-Brown (both Manchester City) joined on loan.

The deals represented a shift in transfer policy, with the club returning its attention to young and hungry players to build for the future.

January – Strong in defence: John Mousinho defends his team from frustrated fans following defeat at lowly Walsall, the game before the damning Bury defeat. The U's end the month managerless

February – New man in town: New owner/chairman Sumrith 'Tiger' Thanakarnjanasuth and Darryl Eales meet fans before the 0-0 stalemate at Northampton Town

February

IN the middle of a takeover and tasked with steadying the ship – Derek Fazackerley faced an unenviable task.

Two (very) late goals in his first league game in charge – a dramatic 3-2 win at Charlton – showed that, perhaps, there wasn't much to it.

Passion, work rate and desire – the Oxford United of old were back.

Faz called on his 'outstanding' players to build on their heroics at the Valley to help them through the rest of the season.

Remaining in 10th place, there was a feeling that a corner had been turned.

However, by the end of the month four games later, Oxford were facing a very different situation.

The players failed to build on the Charlton result and, following defeats to Rotherham United (A), Bristol Rovers and Plymouth Argyle (both at home) the U's plummeted to 15th and just six points above the relegation zone.

Fazackerley admitted throughout the month that his team 'just weren't good enough'.

Indeed, the 66 year-old was struggling to galvanise an underperforming and under confident U's side as fans became increasingly concerned.

Winning time game crucial to success

March – Hotseat: Karl Robinson's appointment ended a two-month manager hunt Picture: OUFC

PEP Clotet ended the season celebrating 'mission impossible' by keeping Birmingham City in the Championship.

But rewind 10 months and playing number two to Garry Monk for the third time in his career was not how the Catalonian – or Oxfordian – envisioned the season ending for him.

Against the ticking time bomb of being a football manager, he tried to make it on his own.

Clotet satisfied then-chairman Darryl Eales' criteria of being a young and hungry coach and impressed Oxford's three-man recruitment panel.

Eales, who plucked Clotet from a six man shortlist, described him as a 'progressive', saying the club was 'lucky to have him'.

Indeed, Clotet played into that rhetoric, claiming that 'history would be made' if he was given time to get things right.

But time was not on his side and 29 league games later United were in need of another manager.

Nearly 60 days came and went before Karl Robinson swaggered into the building with an 'immediate brief' to keep Oxford a League One club.

Buying into the new chairman's ambition and vision of United as a Championship club, the Scouser edged the U's to safety and is aiming high for next season.

The play-offs were the target this year but with more support from the board, players and fans than Clotet already, 'time should be on Robinson's side'.

The Yellows finished the month with a 0-0 draw at relegation threatened Northampton Town in a game they should have won but was more important they avoided defeat given the lurking trap door.

Providing the backdrop to the soap opera that Oxford's season was turning into was Tiger's takeover of the club.

Allen lands key role to develop Under-23 side

All pictures Steve Daniels

The Thai businessman took over the club midway through the month, restarting a managerial hunt that had already extended for four weeks

Target promised to appoint a new man 'within two days' when unveiled to the press.

A further update arrived at the end of the month, in which he said there were four candidates, again promising to make the appointment 'imminently

March

THE sinking feeling of defeat was becoming all too familiar – March began in that exact fashion with a 2-1 reverse at AFC Wimbledon – but at least Oxford United had a manager by the end of the month.

Derek Fazackerley signed off as temporary boss with a 2-1 home win against Peterborough United, a much needed result to ease the nerves in the Oxford camp

Towering defender Rob Dickie's first goal in yellow and a strike from James Henry whose goals in the second half of the season proved pivotal, got the points at a freezing cold Kassam Stadium.

It left United in 15th, six points above the League One relegation zone.

It was a delicate situation for any manager to come into – but Karl Robinson isn't exactly a man short of confidence

Finally appointed on March 22, his arrival brought a close to an incessant 59-day manager hunt.

High profile names such as Frank Lampard, Craig Bellamy and former U s boss Michael Appleton – among others – all headed the bookies market before former MK Dons and Charlton man Robinson was ushered in.

And his tenure began in dramatic and controversial fashion with a 3-0 defeat at Portsmouth.

In Robinson fashion he blasted Nathan Thompson as a disgrace and slated the referee for one of the biggest mistakes in a long time for not sending him off for goading Alex Mowatt.

Mowatt apologised to his team after missing a penalty and then lashing out at Thompson He described it as the worst 60 seconds of his life

But all the drama aside there was a different Oxford United on the pitch.

There were signs of improvement in what Robinson described as a dominant performance.

A respectable 1-1 draw at home to play-off side Scunthorpe United followed—player of the month James Henry was on target again – but the U's headed into a busy April only six points clear of the drop.

April & May

OXFORD United were running out of ways to turn their season around.

The Pep Clotet gamble had failed, Derek Fazackerley had failed to manufacture an upturn in form and a takeover had failed to inspire the players on the pitch.

Karl Robinson embarked on a hectic seven-match April in which to guide the U's to League One safety

The 37-year-old called on his players to be brave – but this again failed to stop the slippery slide down the table.

Defeats to Shrewsbury Town (A) and Fleetwood Town (H) sandwiched a draw at struggling Oldham Athletic, cutting the gap between Oxford and the last relegation spot to five points having played a game more.

To add insult to injury, a superb stoppage time strike from old boy Conor McAleny earned the winner for Fleetwood in a smash-and-grab victory

Robinson admitted he was shocked and speechless after his side failed to win.

He defended his outstanding' players again and his loyalty was rewarded with his first win in charge four days later a 2-0 home win against Southend (yep James Henry scored)

The games were coming thick and fast and, despite a rotated side defending admirably a narrow 1-0 defeat at eventual league winners Wigan was treated as a 'free hit'

The reward for making five changes? A huge three points at Doncaster Rovers in the next game

Henry hit double figures for the season with his match-winning second half header

The season saving win all-but secured League One survival although, depending on other results, Oxford still had a job to do in their penultimate game of the season

Robinson was soon praising his players again, this time for their calmness in coming from behind to beat Rochdale 2-1 and mathematically secure their third tier status

John Mousinho and Todd Kane converted penalties and the result was celebrated like a huge win Oldham failed to beat Doncaster, meaning safety was secured even in defeat.

This set up a pointless final game of the season for United who had achieved their objective of survival before heading to title-chasing Blackburn Rovers.

Robinson's men finished 16th in League One on 56 points, 13 fewer than last season.

But it is a clean slate for the Oxford boss who has promised to use the summer to build a team capable of competing for the play-offs next season.

OUFC Under-23s

COACH Chris Allen will oversee Oxford United's new Under 23 side next season as Karl Robinson begins his backroom reshuffle.

The former winger made 181 appearances in Oxford colours during the 1990s and has been part of the first-team coaching set-up at the Kassam Stadium for three years

Following a spell as youth team boss, Allen will fill a key role aimed at linking the youth and first teams.

It will provide United's youngsters with regular, competitive games against clubs from various leagues and levels.

Oxford born Allen, who also spent time at North Leigh as a player, said, "I think it's a sign of intent from the club and a really exciting development

"I'm really looking forward to the challenge of looking after those players and working with them.

"I am passionate about helping young footballers improve and make their way into the first team and there is nothing better than seeing a player you have worked with go on and establish himself as a professional"

Allen helped develop Callum O'Dowda who was sold to Championship side Bristol City for more than £1m in the summer of 2016

Well-respected Chris Allen will take charge of the newly-set up team

Oxford owner and chairman Sumrith Tiger Thanakarnjanasuth believes the U's have the 'ideal' man in charge to develop youngsters in the same way

The Thai businessman said: "Chris has been a very loyal servant to this club first as a player and then on the coaching side and, in my eyes, this is effectively a deserved promotion for him because the new Under 23 side is a key part of our plans for the future of the club.

"He has a proven track record in helping young players improve and progress.

"He is a strong character who the players respect, but he is also a very highly regarded coach who we believe will suit this role perfectly"

Tiger added. "With the new training ground we will have fantastic facilities and I believe the Under 23 side will play an important role not just this season but for the long term development of Oxford United."

New defender: Chance to show what I can do

OUFC: new signing

OXFORD United have made former Norwich City defender Cameron Norman their first summer signing.

The attacking right back was part of the Canaries side that won the FA Youth Cup in 2013 but failed to make a senior appearance.

The 22 year old played for Woking, Norwich United, Concord Rangers and Needham before playing a key role in King's Lynn second place finish in the Southern League Premier this season.

Officially a free agent, Norman has penned a two-year contract at the Kassam, with the U's holding the option of a 12 month extension.

Manager Karl Robinson was pleased to secure the signature of the 'outstanding prospect' who has made a four division jump up the league ladder

He said. "He scored plenty of goals and was leading the way with assists as well so I'm not surprised clubs were looking but he came here and took a look at what we are building – not just a new training ground but also in terms of the squad— and he wants to be part of that.

"He is tall, very athletic, has a great attitude and we believe is an outstanding prospect for the future"

Norman added. "As soon as I met Karl and looked around here I knew I wanted to join. I have loved my time at King's Lynn and want to thank them for everything, but this is an exciting move for me and a chance to get back into the EFL and show what I can do"

Manager leaves after disappointing season

OUFCW

MANAGER Andy Cook has left Oxford United Women following Sunday's final day 4-0 defeat at league champions Doncaster Rovers Belles

The club said Cook, who has been in charge of the WSL2 side for the last 18 months had stepped down from his role himself.

Cook thanked the club and said the changing nature of football means "we all have to move on at some point"

His departure was announced on Monday a day after the horribly out-of-form U's were thrashed 4-0 at Doncaster, who had already secured the WSL2 title, in the final game of the season.

The home side were out to enjoy themselves and dominated from the first minute

Jess Sigsworth was their hat-trick hero, netting her first from the penalty spot on 15 minutes.

Rhiannon Roberts headed home to double the Rovers lead soon after

Kirsty Hanson and Sigsworth both hit the post for the Belles before the latter scored her second penalty just before the break for 3-0

Sigsworth netted her treble on 75 minutes and there was still time for Hanson to strike the woodwork again.

Chloe Chivers went closest for Oxford, finding the post a minute later

The Yellows finished third from bottom with 12 points from 18 games Two of their three league wins came in the opening couple of matchdays.

Ledson leaves wishing U's well for the future

By George Welch

MIDFIELD maestro Ryan Ledson believes there is a bright future ahead for Oxford United, despite making the jump to the Championship.

The 20-year-old joined Preston North End for an undisclosed fee – believed to be a substantial six-figure amount after matching United's asking price – last week.

Ledson, who scored four goals in 80 appearances for the U's after joining from Everton in the summer of 2016, has signed a three-year deal at Deepdale.

United fought off serious interest for the influential midfielder in January and, more recently, boss Karl Robinson said the move would only happen "if money talks".

Realistically though it was going to be a struggle for the club to hold on to a young star who was keen on a move closer to home and to test himself at a higher level.

However, the departing Scouser believes the U's are on the up.

"It's exciting to be joining Preston and I'm looking forward to playing in the Championship," United's player of the season said.

"But I am sad to be leaving Oxford as well. It's been fantastic and the fans there have been great with me so I wanted to thank them for that."

He added: "I leave with the club in really good hands.

"Karl has come in as manager and definitely got the club moving in the right direction again.

"He has been brilliant with me and I am sure that Oxford United are in for a really exciting time and will be challenging towards the top of the table again next season."

Robinson, reluctant to let such a key asset leave, admitted the move was inevitable once Preston matched the asking price.

He said: "I am sure everyone at the club is sad to see him go because he is an outstanding young man as well as a really good player.

"Preston have behaved impeccably throughout the process, once there was interest we told them a price and they matched it.

"Ryan is very mature and we spoke honestly about what he saw as a chance to move closer to home as well as a chance to prove himself in the Championship.

"I'm sure the fans will join me in thanking Ryan for his time here and we wish him all the best in everything he does in the future."

No OxVox role for new owner of Sunderland

WEST Oxfordshire businessman and lifelong Oxford United supporter Stewart Donald is the new owner of League One side Sunderland.

His takeover of the recently relegated north east team means he will not take up a position as a co-opted member of Oxford United's supporters trust OxVox.

A statement on behalf of OxVox said: "Due to the completion of the purchase of AFC Sunderland by Stewart, it was felt by the committee and agreed by Stewart that there could be a potential conflict of interest if Stewart were a co-opted member of the OxVox Committee.

"With this in mind we wish to inform members that we have decided not to accept Stewart as a co-opted member of the committee.

"Stewart remains a friend of the club and a friend of OxVox, and while wishing him well with his new venture at Sunderland, we look forward to taking six points from them next season."

Donald was formally announced as the new owner of the Black Cats after paying Ellis Short £40million for the Club over the next two seasons.

Sunderland introduced their new owner to the media on Tuesday alongside business partner and fellow Oxford United fan Charlie Methven.

The United fan has previously been a financial supporter of the club when his business Bridle Insurance was the side's shirt sponsor.

Donald's company have also been sponsors of Evo-Stik South League side North Leigh from west Oxfordshire.

■ Sunderland were expected to confirm the appointment of St Mirren boss Jack Ross as their new manager as we went to press.
